

RESEARCH METHODS & TEACHING (RTCH)

RTCH 710 Teaching Methods 3 Credit Hour(s)

Online Prerequisite: THEO 706

This course offers students an introduction to teaching and learning processes, including syllabus development, lesson planning, and evaluation of student progress for a variety of institutional settings.

Offered: Online

RTCH 805 Research Methods 3 Credit Hour(s)

Online Prerequisite: THEO 706

This course equips students with a variety of research skills necessary for facilitating the dissertation process. It provides an overview of the dissertation research and writing process.

Offered: Online

RTCH 900 Research Methods 3 Credit Hour(s)

This course guides the student in the use of library materials, computerized databases, bibliographic resources as well as research strategies, dissertation topic selection, and familiarization with form and style for research papers and dissertations.

Offered: Resident

RTCH 901 Teaching in Higher Education 3 Credit Hour(s)

This course offers students an introduction to teaching and learning processes, including syllabus development, lesson planning, and evaluation of student progress for a variety of instructional settings.

Offered: Resident