

FASHION MERCHANDISING MAJOR (B.S.)

Purpose

The Bachelor of Science in Fashion Merchandising major prepares students for opportunities within the fashion industry. This program equips students with the requisite skills in business, design, and aesthetics. Students learn the design stages in the creative processes, how to apply best practices of business and merchandising in their field, and create artifacts that can be leveraged into opportunities for employment.

Program Learning Outcomes

The student will be able to:

- Employ design concepts in the creative process.
- Apply merchandising principles and strategies to field-related, case studies.
- Relate business concepts to applications in retail merchandising.
- Create a professional portfolio in fashion merchandising that reflects their educational output and skills.
- Relate educational and theological lessons to vocational applications through capstone experiences and internship(s).

Programs of Study

Delivery Format: Online Only

- Fashion Merchandising (B.S.) - Creative Design - Online
- Fashion Merchandising (B.S.) - Fashion Writing - Online
- Fashion Merchandising (B.S.) - Online

Career Opportunities

- Buyer
- Retail manager
- Sales representative
- Stylist
- Visual display specialist
- Product Development Manager
- Fashion Coordinator/Director